3 Update from Youth Justice Improvement Board	Next steps for Youth Justice Strategy / Action Plan / Timeline It is the intention to have the end year report and the next plan ready for Ministerial clearance by spring 2020 and for launch at the Youth Justice Conference in June. It was proposed that the end of strategy report should follow a similar format to the progress report published in June 2017. Joint meeting with the Justice Board A joint meeting with the Justice Board will be held on 21 November. The Board confirmed that the key issues that they wish to bring to the board are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Proposal to move forward with possible legislative change around 16/17 year olds</li> <li>• Incorporating WSA and resourcing implications</li> <li>• Young people in custody and use of secure care</li> </ul> It was agreed that due to time restrictions, it is unlikely that all three aspects could be satisfactorily discussed at one joint meeting. A paper with follow up questions for consideration and a further joint meeting

	proposed for around 6 months later once the Independent Care Review have reported.
4 ILC impact	A set of questions were sent to the group prior to the meeting to help support thinking about the impact of the group. Members felt it would be helpful to take time to speak to their respective organisations and feedback. Discussions included the need for incorporating impact into any future plans from the outset and the complexity in capturing 'softer' impact through discussions and changes of culture. Acknowledged the large ILC agenda and the length of the strategy. Suggestion that previous group members could support this area of work. Moving forward group members highlighted transitions, restorative justice and participation as important areas to continue to focus on.

Input from Phil Raines, Scottish Government	Input from Phil Raines, Children &amp; Young People's Mental Health Taskforce highlighting the work of the taskforce and looking for input from ILC group members. Focus of the discussion was around examples of young people who seem to have fallen through a gap in identifying/addressing their mental health and wellbeing needs. Highlighted the need for early intervention, an understanding of young people's experiences and some of the practical changes that can be made, and discussed the need to meaningfully include young people and incorporate their views. The clinical environment was noted as a significant barrier to children and young people attending appointments and the importance of peer support and relationships, in particular the being aware of the purpose of a relationship and the consistency and continuation. This will require a shift in culture and staff training. Group members were keen to continue the discussion a contact details will therefore be shared.
